Foreword

THE organization of the 1986-1988 RSNA Index to Imaging Literature follows the structure of its recent predecessors. Complete indexing of all articles from Radiology and RadioGraphics and the major articles from 33 additional journals is offered.

The uniform style of references, with year of publication followed by volume and page number, is used throughout this edition.

Continuing progress of our specialty into new areas and the recording of original observations call for the addition of indexing terms each month. Terms not used for 3 years are automatically dropped from the current issue. The utility of the index for the practicing physician-radiologist and for the research-oriented radiologist is always the first consideration in the selection of terms and in the development of the index structure.

STANLEY S. SIEGELMAN, MD, Editor
